Robb Janov musician/teacher/storyteller

National award-winning educator and gypsy jazz/fusion violinist Robb Janov transformed a dying Albuquerque public middle school music program into Rock and Rhythm Band, an exciting, innovative alternative to traditional school music programs. Janov presented the Rock and Rhythm approach at his 2012 TEDxABQ talk, was awarded a 2013 Creative Bravos award and was chosen as the nationwide second place 'ING Unsung Hero' educator.

Now in his 20th year of teaching, Janov recently launched the Rock and Rhythm Foundation, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that provides inspirational music opportunities and resources for youth and adults as well as professional support for teachers interested in elevating and igniting their music programs. Partnering with the City of Albuquerque and the South Broadway Cultural Center, RRF created the Rock and Rhythm Youth Orchestra, a high school ensemble that incorporates string players into a contemporary ensemble.

Janov believes that encouraging teenagers to find inspiring, productive channels for their energy is the key to igniting curiosity, building confidence and guiding them toward success and happiness in school and life.
