Celebration of Silence :: Two Minutes

James Burbank poet

Writer, photographer James Burbank's latest book, The Oxbow Poems: Slow Walks on the Rio Grande (Duende Press, 2015) features Burbank's photographs, poems and essays about Albuquerque's stretch of the great river. Kirkus Reviews said of his work, "Burbank wields the oxbow as a potent symbol of 'the ever-shrinking, ever-disappearing world we call Nature.'" A long-time teacher in the UNM English Department, Burbank directed the Professional Writing Internship Program. His satire has been a frequent feature of the unique on-line regional magazine, New Mexico Mercury. Currently he is working on a multi-media project featuring his audio compositions, photographs and written work.

Palais de Mari for Piano (1986)

Morton Feldman (1926 – 1987)

Today's performance is sponsored by Bill and Karla Cates and the Cates Team in memory of their and Chatter's friend Brian O'Connor, a sweet, generous man and extraordinary musician.
