Chatter Varsity is a showcase for the rising generation of Albuquerque classical musicians.

Rachel Gallegos began playing the violin at age six, studying with Kristin Cram and now with Debra Terry. A junior at Albuquerque High School, Rachel tutors violin students, is a member of the AHS orchestra and various ensembles, and she is first violinist with the Albuquerque Youth Symphony. In February 2013, she won first place in the Jackie McGehee Young Artists Competition, resulting in two solo performances with the New Mexico Philharmonic. Rachel is a regular volunteer at Sunday Chatter (often seen at the front desk). She plans to pursue violin performance in college.

Elena Saavedra Buckley is a junior at Sandia Prep who has studied piano with Oscar Ellis for 12 years. Elena works and volunteers for Chatter, which she has been doing for three years and loves (you can find her behind the espresso counter). She also writes a music blog called Neo Antennae, which has led her to be published in Gramophone Magazine, write CD reviews for Sequenza21.com, and placed fourth in the Spring for Music Great Arts Blogger Challenge. In her spare time, she plays volleyball, does mock trial, writes poetry, and tries to memorize the constellations.

Margaret Randall poet

Margaret Randall is a feminist poet, writer, photographer and social activist. Born in New York City in 1936, she has lived for extended periods in Albuquerque, New York, Seville, Mexico City, Havana, and Managua. Shorter stays in Peru and North Vietnam were also formative. In the turbulent 1960s she co-founded and co-edited EL CORNO EMPLUMADO / THE PLUMED HORN, a bilingual literary journal which for eight years published some of the most dynamic and meaningful writing of an era. From 1984 through 1994 she taught at a number of U.S. universities.
