Michael C Ford Poet

Michael C Ford was greatly influenced by poet Kenneth Patchen in terms of integrating the spoken words with jazz. Ford has done collaborative recordings with members of The Doors: drummer John Densmore and pianist & keyboardist Ray Manzarek. He also has done collaborative recording with Trombonist Julian Priester. His debut spoken word record "Language Commando" earned a Grammy nomination in 1986. Tom Waits said of Ford, "He's a treasure chest of American pop culture," and John Cassavetes said, "Michael C. takes the time to let his words arrive, always magically, like right now."
