Larry Goodell Spoken Word

Larry Goodell lives in Placitas, NM. He started his own performance poetry in the late 60's, New Mexico style. His poet and writer friends were Bob and (then) Bobbie Creeley, Ken Irby, Ann Quin, Kell Robertson, Stephen Rodefer, Latif Harris, Bill Pearlman, Gino Sky & others. He emphasizes live readings and has organized them most of his life, but he promotes the poet as publisher as proved by his Duende Press started as part of the "mimeo revolution" in 1964. His poems 2011 to 2016 are available from Beatlick Press in 4 books: The Broken Garden & The Unsaid Sings, Digital Remains, Pieces of Heart, and the newest, Nothing to Laugh About. His writing often generates from gardening, or now the drought from effects of global warming, from word-play, from the socio-political emergencies of our time and from his love and long relationship with photographer & artist Lenore Goodell.
