Mary Dezember has always been a writer and has worked in a variety of writing professions, but it wasn't until the age of 37 that she began writing poetry and began pursuing her PhD. Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs and Professor of English at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, she teaches creative writing, literature, and art history. She received her PhD in Comparative Literature, with an emphasis in Comparative Arts and with minors in Art History and in Performance Studies, from Indiana University in 2000. Her poems, many of which explore the quest to identity, sensuality and spirituality, and the relationship to others, have appeared in several literary journals and two anthologies. She believes her poems are the result an experience with something greater than her limited views and experiences: they are a soul event. Her book, Earth-Marked Like You, was recently published by Sunstone Press.
