Chatter Varsity is a showcase for the rising generation of Albuquerque classical musicians

Eleven-year-old pianist, Ishan Loomba, is a student of Tatiana Vetrinskaya at the New Mexico School of Music. He discovered the piano at age 5 and gave his debut solo piano recital at UNM's Keller Hall when he was 8, playing compositions by Bach, Chopin and Haydn. Since then, he has participated in music festivals and institutes including the Golden Key Music Festival during which he performed at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

Ishan has been a regular at Sunday Chatter for a number of years. He's thrilled to be performing the music of J.S. Bach, his favorite composer. Ishan is in the 6th grade at Desert Willow Family School. In addition to playing the piano and listening to music, he loves riding his bike, going camping, rock climbing and hiking.

Mikaela Renz-Whitmore Poet

Mikaela Renz-Whitmore is a sometimes poet and every-day editor and planner. She teaches in the Voces teen writing program at the National Hispanic Cultural Center every June and has co-edited A Bigger Boat: The Unlikely Success of the Albuquerque Poetry Slam Scene, Looking Back to Place, and ¿de Veras?: Young Voices from the National Hispanic Cultural Center. Her work appears in various hard-to-find anthologies, and she emerges to perform only when pressed. A lover of community and place, she works as a planner for the City of Albuquerque.
