Today's painter

Deborah Gavel

My new paintings are amalgams of broken china and pottery; combined influences along my journey as an artist—Tibetan mandalas (Thanka paintings,) a love of pattern in nature, textiles from indigenous cultures, and long walks in New Mexico. They are offerings of beauty in these uncertain times.

Gavel is represented by Erdreich-White Fine Arts in Boston, Massachusetts and you may see her current exhibition at the 5G Gallery through July 30, 2010.
Stop in after today's program—the yellow building to the east.
