Today's painter

Susan Hunt

Susan Hunt, retired from a lifetime of teaching secondary school English and history in Puerto Rico (and elsewhere), moved to Albuquerque several years ago. Painting, always an enthusiastic avocation, now takes over a good part of her day. She is currently working on a series of Nob Hill scenes and editing her travel journals, all illustrated by on-site watercolor sketches.

The journals may be accessed at: sites.google.com/site/roamsketchnscribe

The paintings exhibited today resulted from a trip to New Zealand.
